Distance. Opposite is further away (i.e. across the table) while in front of is very close. What's the difference between under and underneath? No difference in meaning. We say under more often than underneath because it's shorter! What's the difference between next to and beside? No difference :). Next to and beside have the exact same meaning. What's the difference between above and on top of? Use above if the object does not touch the surface underneath (i.e. the picture is above the door). On and on top of have the same meaning but again we typically use just on because it is shorter and easier to say.
